04 | NOTE FROM THE HEAD EDITOR

Thank you to all the contributors that made this magazine possible. I'll be honest—putting this magazine together felt a bit like juggling fire while praying the sparks land in the right places.

05 | WHAT GENESIS 1:1 REALLY MEANS

This article peels back the layers like an onion... except with fewer tears and more revelation.

08 | THE BENEFITS OF FIRST PRINCIPLES THINKING IN BIBLE STUDY

Sometimes Bible study feels like trying to solve a 2,000-year-old puzzle without the picture on the box—first principles thinking fixes that.

10 | EXCLUSIVE STORY: ANTI-CHRIST, APPEARED IN KENYA IN 1988?

Rumors, headlines, and a mysterious “appearance”—this story reads like something out of a spiritual thriller.

12 | WHY SOLA SCRIPTURA?

And yes, you might finish reading with a renewed appreciation for that Bible sitting on your shelf... staring at you.

15 | PRAYER: THE HEARTBEAT OF REVIVAL. HELP US PRAY

Revival doesn't start with stadiums—it starts with quiet prayers whispered by ordinary people like you and me.

IF YOU'RE READING THIS,

This magazine actually made it to print—praise the Lord and You're the kind of person who flips to the content page first, which already tells me you're my people.

Putting together the first issue of 2nd Coming Magazine felt a bit like running a marathon inside a prayer meeting: frantic steps, whispered petitions, and moments where I wondered if the Lord would send an angel to help with layout design. (Still waiting... but grateful for the human contributors He did send.)

This issue is more than ink on paper; it's a conversation. A conversation about truth, discernment, revival, and yes—the unsettling headlines that make us raise an eyebrow and whisper, "Is prophecy unfolding right now?"

We've dug into Genesis, explored old doctrines with fresh eyes, examined strange events from Kenya, and wrestled with Sola Scriptura. We don't claim to have all the answers... but we're committed to asking the right questions, guided by Scripture and the Spirit of God.

As you turn each page, I pray you feel a gentle tug—a holy pull inviting you deeper, higher, closer. The world is getting louder, darker, and more confusing. But here's the good news: truth still shines, and God still speaks. Let's begin the journey—together. Welcome to Issue One.

“IN THE BEGINNING.”

There are verses we read. There are verses we memorize. And then there are verses like Genesis 1:1—the kind that quietly holds the entire universe together while we skim past it on our way to the rest of the chapter. “In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.” Simple. majestic. And far more layered than it appears.

Genesis 1:1 isn’t merely the Bible’s opening line. It is the philosophical, theological, metaphysical, and cosmological foundation of all reality. It tells us something astonishing: before anything existed—before atoms danced, before stars burned, before time began—God already was.

THE METAPHYSICAL FOUNDATION: GENESIS 1 AND FIRST PRINCIPLES

Long before Aristotle wrote about “first causes,” and centuries before modern physicists began asking questions about cosmic origins, Scripture had already planted its flag on the summit of metaphysics.

Genesis 1:1 is not trying to prove God. It assumes Him. This is the Bible’s first philosophical shockwave. Just as logic cannot prove logic, and mathematics cannot justify mathematics without presupposing itself, the Bible presents God as the First Principle—the axiomatic foundation upon which all other truth rests.

THE METAPHYSICAL FOUNDATION: GENESIS 1 AND FIRST PRINCIPLES

“Genesis 1:1 isn’t merely the Bible’s opening line. It is the philosophical, theological, metaphysical, and cosmological foundation of all reality.”

AXIOM 1: GOD AS NECESSARY BEING

A Genesis begins not with argument, but with assumption: “In the beginning, God...” God does not emerge; He simply is. Theologians call this aseity—self-existence. This challenges every worldview that places the universe at the center of existence.

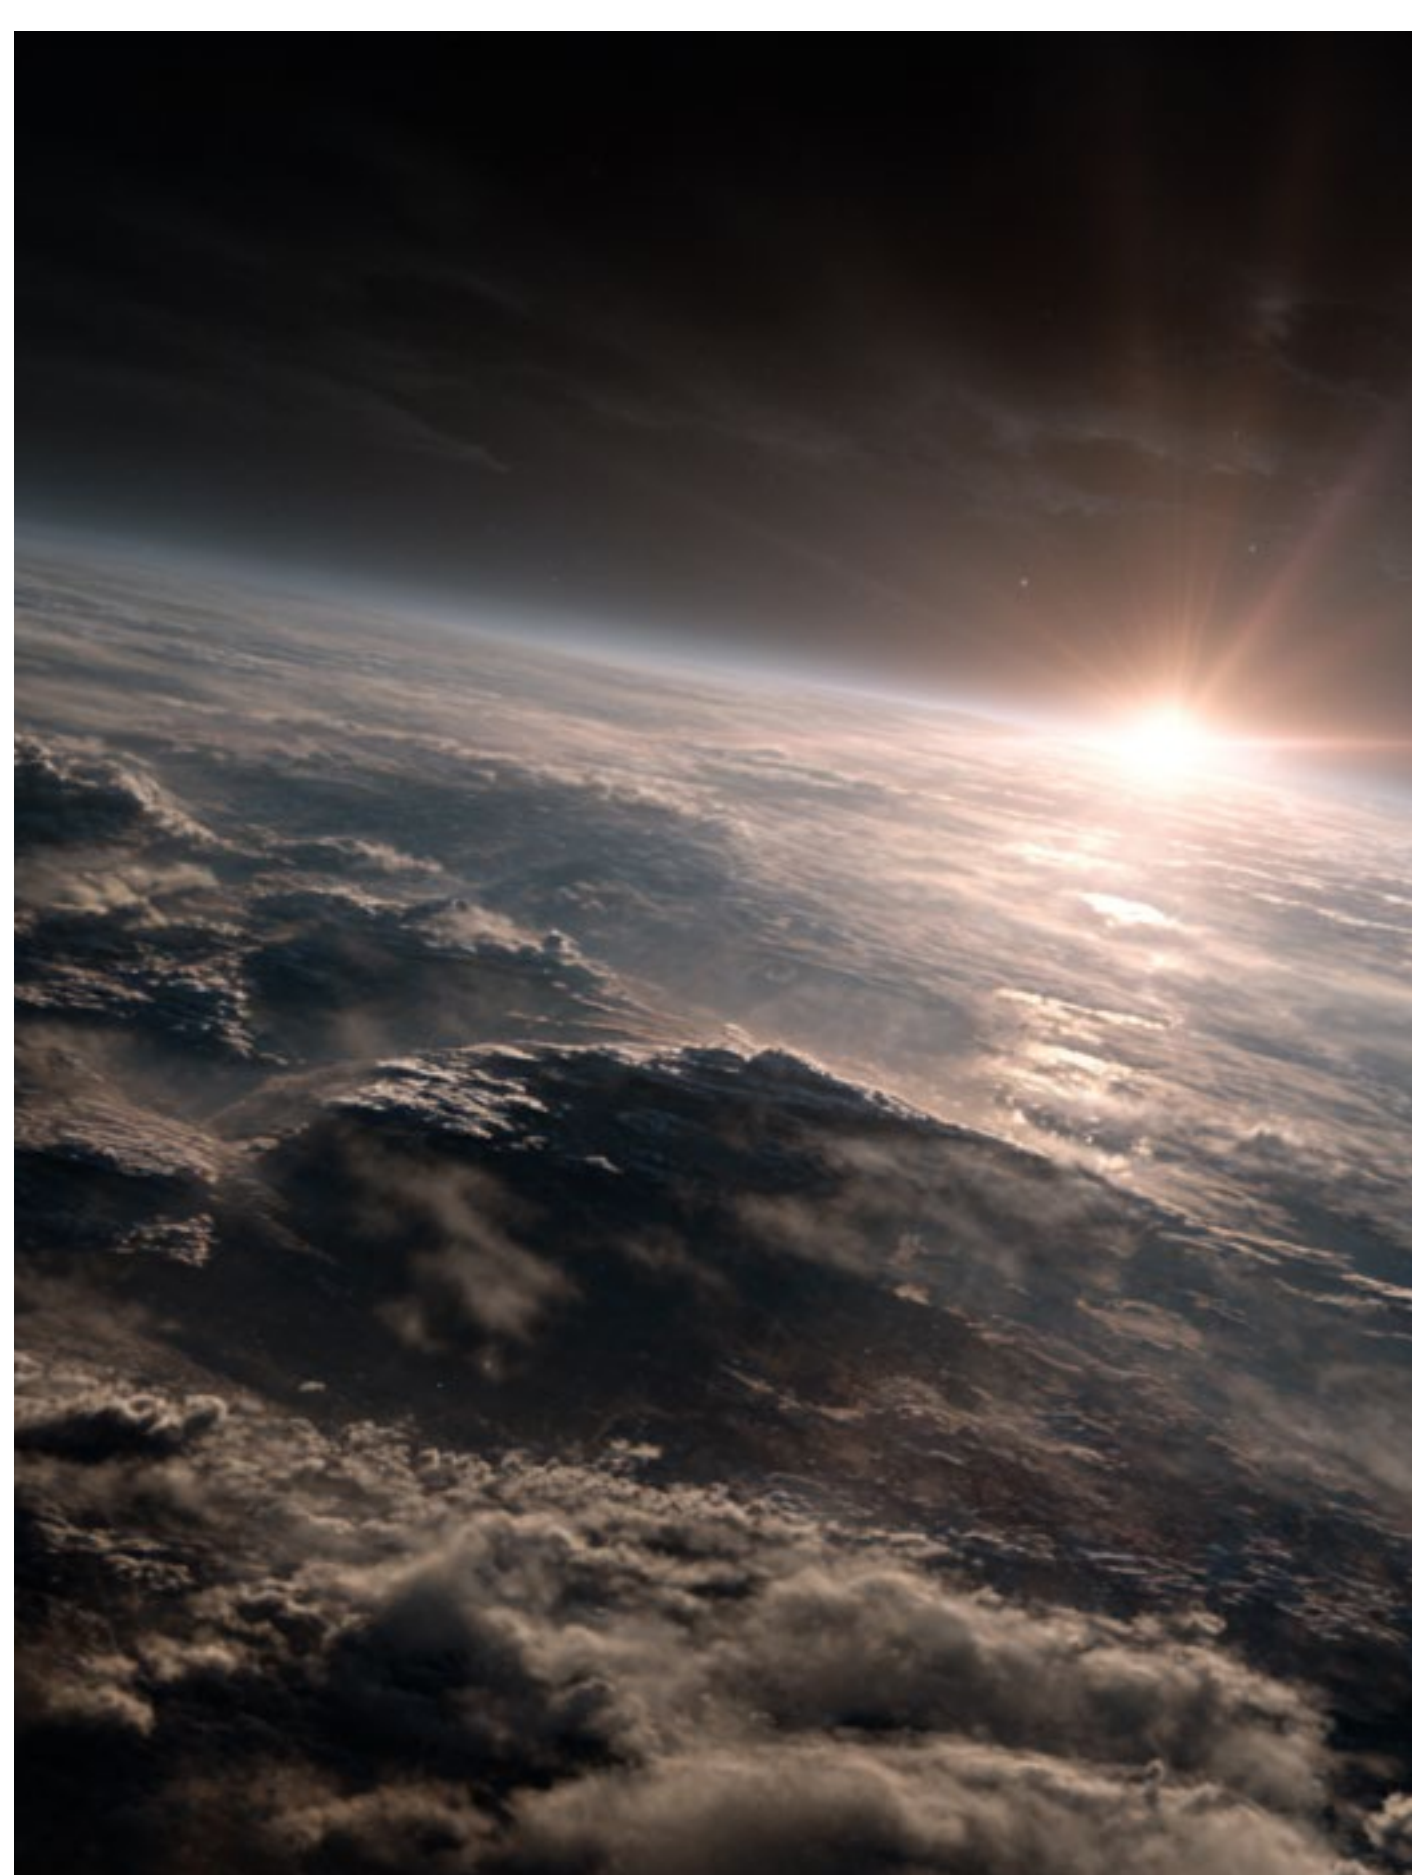

Scripture declares that God exists before time, outside of space, and independently of matter. Time is not God’s environment; time is His invention. As Psalm 90:2 reminds us: “Before the mountains were brought forth, or ever thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, thou art God.”

The bible writers consistently agree: John 1:1-3 — Christ is before all things. Revelation 1:8 — God is the Alpha and Omega. Genesis 1:1 — God begins the beginning. The universe is not eternal. Only God is.

AXIOM 2: THE PRINCIPLE OF CAUSALITY

A Philosophy has a stubborn rule. Non-being cannot produce being. Yet many modern explanations of the universe subtly depend on “nothing” producing “something.” Genesis disagrees. The Bible affirms what logic demands:

1. If something begins to exist, it must have a cause.
2. The universe began to exist.

“NON-BEING CANNOT PRODUCE BEING.”

3. Therefore, it must have a Cause outside itself.

That Cause must be timeless, immaterial, uncaused, and powerful. In other words: God. Scripture repeatedly supports this:

Hebrews 11:3 — creation came from the invisible, not from pre-existing material.

Acts 17:24–25 — God made the world and gives life to all.

Romans 1:20 — creation reveals God’s eternal power.

HERE IS SOMETHING INTERESTING:

The Second Law of Thermodynamics was developed in the mid-1800s by people like Rudolf Clausius and William Thomson (Lord Kelvin) while studying steam engines and heat. Clausius introduced the concept of entropy in 1865 and summarized the Second Law as: “The entropy of the universe tends to a maximum.”

In simple terms: Entropy  $\approx$  a measure of disorder or the number of ways energy can be spread out. The Second Law says that in any closed system, usable energy tends to be converted to less usable forms (e.g., heat that can’t do work). So over time, systems naturally move toward more disorder and less available energy for useful work.

Applied to the entire universe (which physicists often treat as a closed system), this means: The universe is “running down”—usable energy is decreasing, entropy is increasing.

Why does this suggest a beginning?

1. If the universe had existed forever in the past, entropy would already be at its maximum—there would be no remaining usable energy, no stars shining, no life.

2. But we do see stars, temperature differences, and usable energy.

3. Therefore, the universe cannot have been “running” forever; it must have had a finite beginning in the past.

HOW DOES THE SECOND LAW OF THERMODYNAMICS LINE UP WITH SCRIPTURE?

1. CREATION HAS A BEGINNING

“In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.” (Genesis 1:1)

Time, space, and matter start; they are not eternal.

2. CREATION IS WEARING OUT / DECAYING

“They shall perish... they all shall wax old like a garment.” (Psalm 102:25–27)

“The whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now.” (Romans 8:22)

These verses describe a creation that is not static, but one that is aging, decaying, and groaning—a conceptual match with a universe subject to entropy and eventual decay.

Therefore, the Second Law of Thermodynamics, formalized in the 19th century, tells us that the universe is gradually running down—usable energy is being lost and entropy is steadily increasing. If the cosmos had existed forever, it would already be in a state of maximum disorder, with no energy left to power stars or life. The fact that we still live in a universe full of structure, heat flow, and activity strongly suggests that it had a real beginning—perfectly in harmony with the biblical declaration, “In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth” (Genesis 1:1), and the biblical picture of a creation that is “waxing old like a garment” (Psalm 102:26).

Rudolf Julius Emanuel Clausius was a German physicist and mathematician and is considered one of the central founding fathers of the science of thermodynamics.

AXIOM 3: THE IMPOSSIBILITY OF SELF-CAUSATION

If the universe created itself, it would need to exist before it existed—to cause its own existence. That’s a logical impossibility. The universe shows clear signs of contingency:

- 1. It is composed of parts. Anything made of parts is dependent on those parts.
- 2. It changes. What changes requires a cause beyond itself.
- 3. It had a beginning. Everything with a beginning has a cause.
- 4. It is subject to entropy. A necessary being cannot deteriorate.

Therefore, the universe is not necessary. It is not eternal. It is created, dependent, sustained, and fragile.

“Of old hast thou laid the foundation of the earth: and the heavens are the work of thy hands. They shall perish, but thou shalt endure: yea, all of them shall wax old like a garment; as a vesture shalt thou change them, and they shall be changed: But thou art the same, and thy years shall have no end.”

HERE IS SOMETHING INTERESTING:

Astronomers discovered that the universe is expanding at an accelerating rate. The Old Testament several times describes God as the One who “stretches out the heavens like a tent” (e.g., Isaiah 40:22; Psalm 104:2). While this language is poetic, many believers see a suggestive parallel between this imagery and the modern discovery that the universe is expanding.

XIOM 4: CONTINUOUS DEPENDENCE — GOD AS SUSTAINER

Here is where Scripture surprises even Christian readers: He is the constant Sustainer of all reality. The universe is not like a building that stands once built. It is like a song—if the Singer stops, the song stops.

SCRIPTURE IS EXPLICIT:

AXIOM 4: CONTINUOUS DEPENDENCE - GOD AS SUSTAINER

Hebrews 1:3 — Christ is “upholding all things” continuously.

Colossians 1:17 — “By Him all things hold together.”

Acts 17:28 — “In Him we live, and move, and have our being.”

Nehemiah 9:6 — God “preserves” all creation.

Remove God’s sustaining word for a millisecond, and the cosmos collapses.

This undermines two faulty ideas:

1. Deism

The belief that God created the universe and walked away. The Bible argues precisely the opposite.

2. A Self-Sustaining Universe

Science confirms the universe is not self-sustaining. Every atom, every law, every constant cries out: “I am upheld.”

Quantum physicists still cannot explain why particles hold together instead of flying apart. They call it “the strong nuclear force.”

Scripture calls it “the word of His power.”
(Hebrews 1:3)

CONCLUSION: GENESIS 1:1 IS THE KEY THAT UNLOCKS REALITY

GENESIS 1:1 IS NOT A CHILDREN’S MEMORY VERSE. IT IS THE DEEPEST, BOLDEST PHILOSOPHICAL CLAIM IN ANCIENT HISTORY.

CONCLUSION: GENESIS 1:1 IS THE KEY THAT UNLOCKS REALITY

Genesis 1:1 declares that: God is eternal. God is necessary. The universe is contingent. Life has purpose.

Time has a beginning. Creation is upheld by God right now. It answers atheism, agnosticism, materialism, deism, pantheism, and naturalism—all in one breath. Every worldview must start somewhere. The Bible starts here: “In the beginning, God...” And that changes everything.

“IN THE BEGINNING, GOD...”

Revelation 22:13 - “I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last.”

DID THE ANTI-CHRIST APPEAR IN KENYA IN 1988?

- Investigative Report

On June 11, 1988, thousands robed and bearded man appeared of worshippers at an from nowhere and stood in the open-air prayer meeting middle of the crowd”. The crowd in Kawangware (a Nairobi instantly whispered “Jesus! Jesus slum) believed they witnessed of Nazareth!” as they fell prostrate, the Second Coming of Christ. overcome with emotion. The man The gathering, led by self-styled spoke to the assembly in flawless evangelist Mary Sinaida Akatsa Swahili for about 15–18 minutes, of the Bethlehem Church, was delivering a brief sermon and astonished when “a mysterious blessing. Mutungi reported hearing figure appeared suddenly” during the stranger proclaim that “the the service. According to Kenya people of Kenya were blessed... We Times journalist Job Mutungi are nearing the time for the reign (editor of the paper’s Swahili of heaven. But before that I shall edition) who was present, “the come back and bring a bucketful tall figure of a barefooted, white- of blessings for all of you”

Many in the vicinity claimed to be miraculously healed during the apparition. After concluding his message, the enigmatic visitor departed as mysteriously as he arrived. A local man, Gurnam Singh, offered him a lift by car. But after a short ride, the stranger asked to stop at the Route 56 bus terminus, announcing he would “alight and head for heaven.” Witnesses say that upon exiting the vehicle “he walked a few paces... and simply vanished into thin air”, leaving Mr. Singh and bystanders astonished. The entire episode—from sudden appearance to disappearance—left the 6,000 onlookers in shock and jubilation. “It appeared to them the ‘Son of Man’ had at last fulfilled His promise of coming back to earth,” wrote Mutungi, noting it took the crowd nearly 20 minutes to recover from what they had seen. The Kenyan media widely covered the story in the following days. On June 22, 1988, the Kenya Times ran a center-page spread headlined “Did Jesus Christ Come to Nairobi?” featuring a photograph of the bearded visitor in white robes. The Kenya Sunday Times of June 26 added further details, describing the man as “calm, tall [and] lean... wearing a flowing robe which was spotlessly clean,” with “a jet-black beard and a black fly whisk”. Mutungi himself was quoted as saying, “I am convinced this was a miracle,” noting that “sparks came from [the stranger’s] feet” and “a bright star [was seen] in daytime” a week prior as a sign. Major international wires picked up the story: a United Press International (UPI) report (also carried by Los Angeles Times) recounted how “swooning attendees... said they witnessed the second coming of Christ when a white-robed ‘Messiah’ appeared before them, then vanished at the No. 56 bus stop”. UPI confirmed that the Kenya Times spread included a photo of “a bearded, intense-looking man with swarthy looks and white robes” and that residents had reported a mysteriously bright star in the sky at 1 p.m. on June 4, 1988 (exactly one week before the meeting). The Guardian (UK) and other international media also noted the astonishing claims from Nairobi, lending global attention to what quickly became known as the “Nairobi miracle” or “Nairobi incident.”

MAITREYA: INVESTIGATING THE “WORLD TEACHER”

In New Age and Theosophical circles, Maitreya is promoted as a great spiritual teacher destined to unite humanity. According to proponents like Benjamin Creme (1922–2016) of Share International, Maitreya is “the World Teacher for the coming age”, who fulfills the messianic expectations of all major religions. In their view, “Christians know him as the Christ; Jews await him as the Messiah; Hindus look for Krishna; Buddhists await Maitreya Buddha; and Muslims expect the Imam Mahdi” – all are said to be one individual, Maitreya. Far from being a distant mythical figure, Share International claims Maitreya “has been living among the Asian community in London since 1977” and is now gradually emerging into public view. Crucially, Theosophical teachings distinguish Jesus of Nazareth from “the Christ” spirit. In this esoteric view, “the Christ” is an office or spiritual position currently held by Maitreya. Alice A. Bailey – a leading Theosophist – taught that Jesus was a disciple who had been “overshadowed” or temporarily infused by the Christ spirit (Maitreya) during his ministry. Benjamin Creme echoed this, claiming “Maitreya was actually Jesus’s teacher, and Maitreya manifested through (or overshadowed) Jesus 2,000 years ago”. In other words, New Age doctrine asserts that the divine Christ spirit (Maitreya) used Jesus as a vehicle, and now that same spirit has returned as Maitreya himself – a “modern man” concerned with global problems, poised to guide humanity into an era of peace and unity. Maitreya is portrayed as a humble teacher who will not found a new religion but will inspire worldwide cooperation, sharing of resources, and “self-realization” among humans.

The concept of Maitreya as World Teacher originated with Theosophy, a 19th–20th century occult movement. Helena Petrovna Blavatsky (1831–1891), Theosophy’s founder, spoke of hidden “Masters” or advanced beings guiding humanity. Blavatsky’s successors identified one of these Masters as the “Lord Maitreya” who would be the next great spiritual teacher. Alice A. Bailey (1880–1949), a prominent Theosophist, wrote extensively about the imminent “Reappearance of the Christ.” In her writings, Bailey explicitly identified this coming Christ with “Lord Maitreya” of Buddhist tradition. She explained that this Christ is “that Great Being Whom the Christian calls the Christ; He is known also in the Orient as the Bodhisattva, and as the Lord Maitreya, and is the One looked for by the devout Mohammedan under the name Imam Mahdi”. Bailey did not view Christ as the unique Son of God of biblical Christianity. Instead, in her theology Christ/Maitreya is a high-ranking member of an “Inner Hierarchy” of enlightened beings who secretly oversee human spiritual evolution. In fact, Alice Bailey wrote that “the only purpose of establishing a New World Order is to serve as a political structure for the New Age Christ.” This reveals that Theosophists saw global political changes as paving the way for Maitreya’s emergence. Bailey’s plan envisioned sweeping social and economic changes implemented by disciples of the hierarchy – even within governments – to create conditions for the Christ’s appearance.

Her writings foresaw a “New World Order” guided behind the scenes by these Masters, leading ultimately to the World Teacher’s open reign. Such ideas have raised eyebrows, essentially describing a kind of occult shadow government working to install a messianic figure. It is also telling that Alice Bailey’s organization was originally named the Lucifer Publishing Company (after Blavatsky’s occult journal “Lucifer”) – a blatant reference to Lucifer, which was later toned down to Lucis Trust. Bailey, like Blavatsky, did not use the name Lucifer as a synonym for pure evil as in Christianity; rather, they saw Lucifer as a source of light or enlightenment (a concept we will explore more below). Bailey’s affiliation with “Lucifer Trust” and her New Age “Great Invocation” prayer calling for “light” to descend have led many Christian researchers to view her teachings with extreme caution.

Picking up where Bailey left off, Benjamin Creme presented himself as the herald of Maitreya’s arrival. Creme was deeply influenced by Bailey and Blavatsky. He openly acknowledged the profound influence of Alice A. Bailey on his work. In his autobiographical writing, Creme recounts that from an early age he immersed himself in occult and esoteric literature, “read[ing], among many others, the Theosophical works of H.P. Blavatsky and Leadbeater; ... [and] the Alice Bailey and Agni Yoga Teachings”, and he believed the time had come for Bailey’s prophecies to be fulfilled. He credited these studies with providing the “background of the Alice Bailey Teachings” from which he wrote, supplementing them with “material arrived at through [his] own inner contacts”. In fact, Creme described his mission as a continuation of revelations where Alice Bailey left off: “The last information about the return of the Christ was given up to 1949 by Alice A. Bailey... Now the working out of the Plan today... has been given to me by my own Master”.

Beginning in the 1970s, Creme lectured worldwide, asserting that “Lord Maitreya – the Christ” was already present and preparing for his public mission. He described miraculous signs attributed to Maitreya’s emergence, such as mysterious crosses of light, healing wells, and even an alleged appearance of Maitreya to 6,000 people in Nairobi in 1988.

LUCIFERIAN LINKS BEHIND THE SCENES

To fully understand why Christians label Maitreya a Luciferian false christ, one must examine the belief systems of his heralds – Blavatsky and Bailey. These architects of the Maitreya lore were unapologetically immersed in Luciferian theology. In fact, Alice Bailey’s organization originally bore a startling name: the Lucifer Publishing Company, which she later softened to Lucis Trust. This was no publicity stunt; Bailey and her mentor Blavatsky taught a reversal of biblical roles – in their writings Lucifer is revered as the true light-bearer and savior of humanity, while the God of the Bible is dismissed as a false tyrant. Blavatsky’s own words leave no ambiguity. In The Secret Doctrine, she praises Lucifer in exalted terms: “Lucifer represents life, thought, progress, civilization, liberty, independence. Lucifer is the Logos, the Serpent, the Savior.” Far from denouncing the devil, Blavatsky saw the Biblical “Satan” as misunderstood. She writes that “Lucifer is the LOGOS in his highest, and the ‘Adversary’ in his lowest aspect – both of which are reflected in our Ego.”

In her cosmology, Lucifer is a force of enlightenment – “the spirit of Intellectual Enlightenment and Freedom of Thought” – who “helped man find his way” and even is called “the guiding beacon”. Astonishingly, Blavatsky goes on to argue that Satan/Lucifer is humanity’s redeemer: “the ‘Lord of Phosphorus’ ... and Lucifer, or ‘Light-Bearer,’ is in us: it is our Mind – our tempter and Redeemer, our intelligent liberator and Saviour from pure animalism”

In this Luciferian worldview, the serpent of Eden is not the villain but the hero who gave divine wisdom to mankind.

Alice Bailey echoed these themes. She claimed to receive teachings from “Master Djwhal Khul,” a spirit guide who outlined a “Plan” for a new world order. Central to this Plan was the reappearance of “the Christ” – which, as we saw, Bailey identified as Maitreya, not Jesus. Bailey’s writings refer to a great being called “Sanat Kumara”, known as the Lord of the World, who oversees Earth’s spiritual destiny. Tellingly, the name “Sanat” is a thinly disguised anagram of SATAN. Thus, the very spiritual hierarchy that Bailey and Blavatsky served – the hierarchy now said to be preparing Maitreya’s emergence – is rooted in Luciferian veneration. Their organizations published magazines and books with Lucifer in the title, aiming to rehabilitate Lucifer’s reputation as the “light-bringer.” The Lucis Trust (formerly Lucifer Trust) today is an NGO actively supporting United Nations spiritual initiatives, spreading Bailey’s teachings that the “Christ” to come is not Jesus but a new leader for the New Age. Given this pedigree, the equation becomes clear: Maitreya (their “Christ”) is the product of Luciferian theology, a doctrine in which Lucifer is good and the true Christ of Christianity is irrelevant. No wonder Christian analysts suspect that Maitreya = the Luciferian Antichrist. The people who promote Maitreya literally praise Lucifer as savior – a glaring red flag.

THE DECEPTION STRATEGY: HOW THE OCCULT WORLD SETS THE STAGE

1. REHABILITATE LUCIFER

Theosophy & Lucis Trust rebrand Lucifer as noble “light-bringer” and spiritual intelligence (The Christ), not the enemy of God.

2. OFFER A “HIERARCHY” INSTEAD OF THE GOD OF SCRIPTURE

A secret Spiritual Hierarchy of Masters guides humanity; the Lord Maitreya is the World Teacher/Christ

3. REPLACE THE ONE TRUE CHRIST WITH A SYNCRETIC WORLD TEACHER

“The World Teacher... the Christian calls the Christ; in the Orient, the Lord Maitreya... he is looked for by devout Muslims as the Imam Mahdi, etc.”

This dissolves the uniqueness of Jesus of Nazareth, turning Him into just one expression of a bigger “Christ principle.”

4. STAGE SIGNS, WONDERS, AND APPARITIONS

Maitreya allegedly appears in Nairobi 1988, does healings, and vanishes; later appears to groups worldwide; produces “signs” (crosses of light, miracle waters, etc.).

5. PROMISE A GLOBAL SPIRITUAL “UP-GRADE” (PLANETARY PENTECOST / LATTER-RAIN COUNTERFEIT)

Creme, Barbara Marx Hubbard and others talk about a planetary pentecostal experience where the New Age Christ pours out a unifying spiritual energy.

This is positioned as the spiritual climax of human history, but without repentance, obedience to God’s law, or fidelity to Scripture.

SHARE INTERNATIONAL'S PROMOTION AND INTERPRETATION OF THE EVENT

Soon after the Nairobi incident, Benjamin Creme – a British esoteric author and founder of the Tara Center/Share International – announced that this event was an important milestone in the emergence of “Maitreya, the World Teacher.” Creme had been publicly predicting since the 1970s that a great spiritual teacher, whom he called Maitreya, would soon reveal himself to the world. In fact, in August 1987 (the year before Nairobi) Creme had declared that “in the next three or four months, Maitreya will be working intensively to bring about a breakthrough in international relationships”. By early 1988, Creme’s organization was issuing press releases and articles hinting that Maitreya’s public emergence was imminent. The unexpected appearance in Kenya was therefore seized upon as proof of these predictions. Share International (SI) – Creme’s worldwide network – quickly incorporated the Nairobi story into its messaging. A Tara Center newsletter titled “Emergence of the World Teacher” announced: “On June 11 (1988), Maitreya appears in Nairobi, Kenya, and is photographed addressing thousands of people who instantly recognize Him as the Christ.” This news brief (citing the Kenya Times account) presented the Nairobi miracle as the first major public appearance of Maitreya. It was followed by a detailed article in Share International magazine (September 1988 issue) under the same headline used by Kenyan media: “Did Jesus Christ come to Nairobi?” Creme later described a coming global event he called the “Day of Declaration,” in which Maitreya would appear on every television screen simultaneously, speak telepathically to humanity, and trigger mass healings—a global reenactment of Pentecost.

WHY IS THIS RELEVANT TODAY?

When we filter these facts through the lens of the Bible, an undeniable pattern emerges. The Bible identifies Lucifer as a fallen angel – “Lucifer, son of the morning” (Isaiah 14:12) – whom Christians equate with Satan, the devil. Scripture forewarns that Satan will masquerade as an angel of light to mislead humanity: “And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light” (2 Corinthians 11:14). This is precisely what we see with the New Age Maitreya: a being touted as a radiant teacher of love and light, even called the “Christ” and “Buddha,” yet coming not in the name of Jesus but in his own name. Jesus predicted this inversion: “I am come in my Father’s name, and ye receive me not; if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive” (John 5:43). The Maitreya movement expects people of all faiths to accept a new leader on his own merits and claims – a scenario Christ warned could ensnare those not grounded in the truth.

Benjamin Creme – a British esoteric author and founder of the Tara Center/Share International

This deceptive strategy came to dramatic public expression in Nairobi, Kenya, on June 11, 1988, in what is now recognized by many as one of the most astonishing displays of spiritual impersonation in modern times. According to Share International and eyewitnesses, a mysterious man robed in white appeared suddenly before a gathering of over 6,000 people at a church service led by charismatic preacher Mary Akatsa. As he spoke, eyewitnesses claimed he radiated light, healed the sick instantly, and declared himself as the “Christ” who had come again. The crowd reportedly fell to their knees, praising and worshiping him, with many weeping and testifying that they had seen Jesus. Within hours, photos and testimonies had reached the media. Benjamin Creme immediately confirmed that this being was Maitreya himself, appearing miraculously to affirm his readiness to publicly emerge on the world stage. But to those grounded in Scripture, the spiritual fingerprints of deception were unmistakable. A being claiming divinity, appearing suddenly before a large crowd, performing instantaneous healings, speaking softly and charismatically while calling himself “Christ” – these are the very traits Jesus warned would characterize false christs and false prophets. As Matthew 24:24 warns: “For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.”

But to those grounded in Scripture, the spiritual fingerprints of deception were unmistakable. A being claiming divinity, appearing suddenly before a large crowd, performing instantaneous healings, speaking softly and charismatically while calling himself “Christ” – these are the very traits Jesus warned would characterize false christs and false prophets. As Matthew 24:24 warns: “For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall show great signs and wonders; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect.”

The Nairobi event was not an isolated miracle – it was a preview. It was a theatrical unveiling, designed to test how easily a world desperate for hope, healing, and unity could be seduced by a counterfeit savior. The crowd was unprepared. They had no filter of biblical truth to test the spirit. What they saw was not the Christ of Scripture returning with the armies of heaven, but a being cloaked in light, drawing worship to himself through signs – the exact tactic Lucifer has always used.

Why does this matter today? Because the Nairobi event stands as a prophetic case study in real-world deception. It was a small-scale rehearsal for a far greater global delusion prophesied in Revelation. What happened in Kenya was not ancient history – it is a template. In a time when the world is increasingly open to spiritual experiences, miracles, interfaith unity, and supernatural phenomena, the conditions are ripe for another — far more global — appearance. And this time, it will not be witnessed by thousands, but by millions — even the entire world

The Kenya event is relevant now because it proves how quickly sincere, religious people — even inside a Christian worship service — can be swept into spiritual deception when discernment is lacking. It is a solemn reminder that miracles, charisma, and spiritual power do not equal divine authority. Only a love for biblical truth, grounded in Jesus Christ as revealed in Scripture, will protect us from the coming delusion.

What Nairobi revealed in miniature, the world will soon face in magnitude. The question is no longer if a false christ will appear — but how many will recognize him when he does.

WHY SOLA SCRIPTURA?

"TRADITION MUST BE JUDGED BY SCRIPTURE, NOT SCRIPTURE BY TRADITION."

The principle of Sola Scriptura ("Scripture alone") crystallized during the 16th-century Protestant Reformation, but its foundations stretch back much earlier—to the apostles, the early church, and even the Hebrew Scriptures themselves. When Martin Luther stood before the Diet of Worms in 1521 and declared, "My conscience is captive to the Word of God... I cannot and will not recant," he was invoking a principle older than Rome, older than councils, older than ecclesiastical tradition. He echoed the stance of the apostles who, when confronted by religious authorities, answered: "We must obey God rather than men" (Acts 5:29). The earliest Christians relied on the Old Testament Scriptures (Hebrew Bible) as their final authority while recognizing the apostolic writings as equally binding. The Bereans in Acts 17 demonstrated the earliest recorded expression of Sola Scriptura when they tested even Paul's preaching against the written Word. The church fathers—Justin Martyr, Irenaeus, Tertullian—repeatedly appealed to Scripture as superior to custom or philosophical speculation. Irenaeus wrote that heretics twist Scripture, and the remedy is not tradition alone but returning to "the clear and certain utterances of Scripture." Yet over centuries, Christian tradition began to accumulate layers of authority—creeds, papal decrees, church councils—that were sometimes treated as equal to Scripture.

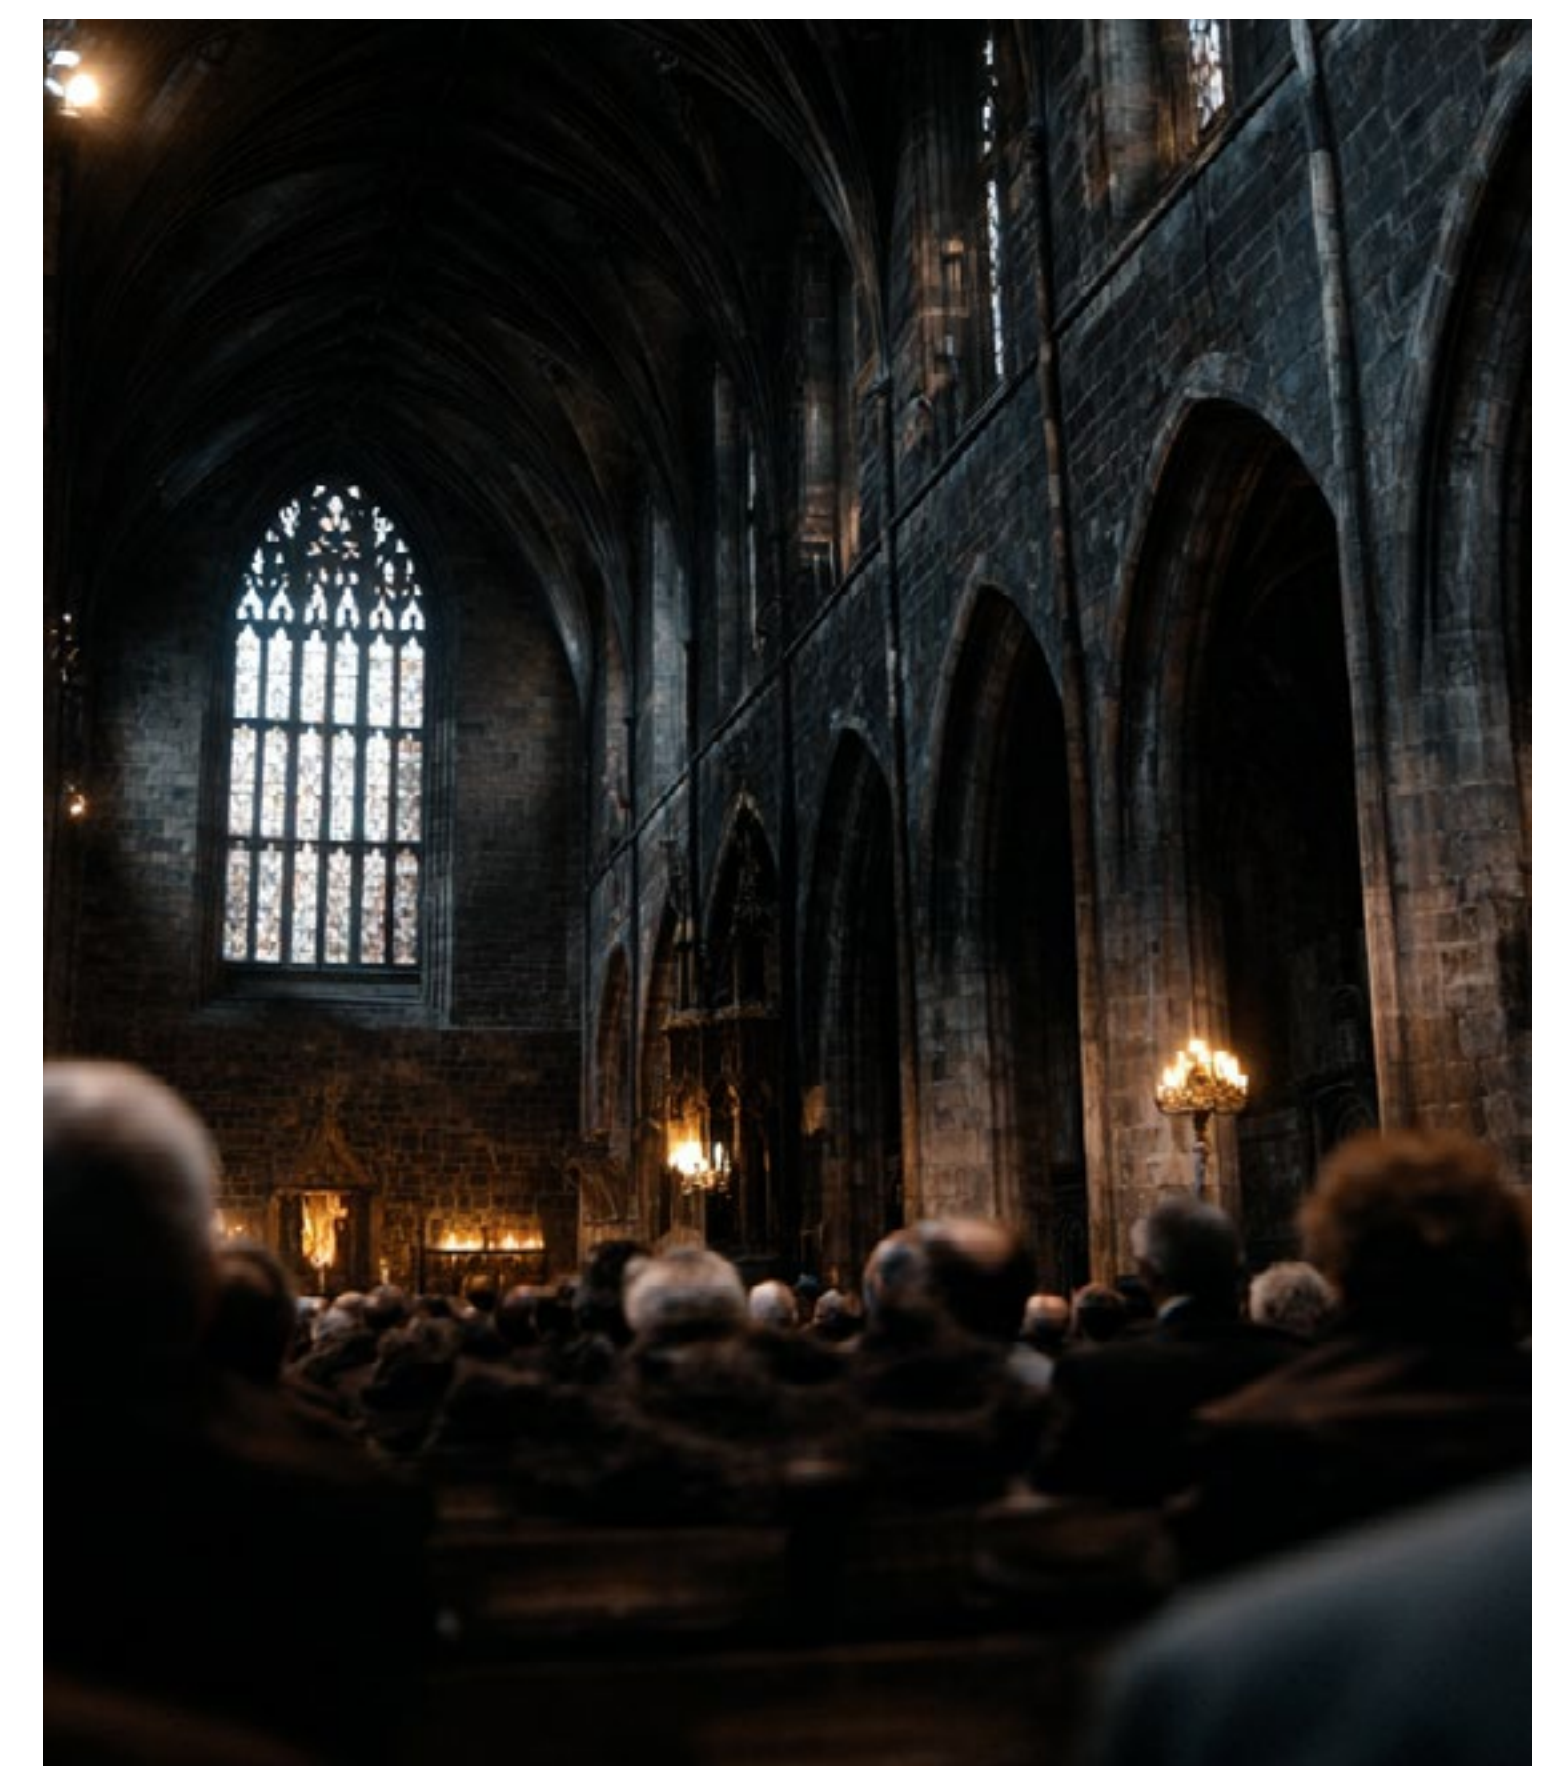

This eventually produced doctrines and practices the Reformers believed contradicted the Bible, such as indulgences, penance systems, and the veneration of relics. Luther, Calvin, Zwingli, and the Radical Reformers insisted that the church must be re-formed not by new ideas, but by returning to "the pure fountain of God's Word." This was not rebellion; it was restoration. Thus, Sola Scriptura emerged not as a rejection of tradition, but as a declaration that tradition must be judged by Scripture, not Scripture by tradition.

In an age of spiritual confusion, contested authority, and rapidly shifting ideologies, the question "What is truth?" has never been more urgent. For millions of believers across centuries, the answer is found in a single foundational principle: Sola Scriptura—the conviction that Scripture alone is the final, sufficient, and infallible authority for doctrine, morality, and the Christian life.

This principle is not a mere relic of the 16th-century Reformation; it is a living safeguard for today's church. While it crystallized when Martin Luther stood before the Diet of Worms declaring his conscience "captive to the Word of God," its roots stretch back to the apostles, the early church fathers, and the Hebrew Scriptures themselves.

The Divine Breath: What Scripture Claims About Itself

At its core, Sola Scriptura affirms that the Bible is God-breathed. The Apostle Paul uses the Greek term theopneustos (God-breathed) in 2 Timothy 3:16

This word appears nowhere else in Greek literature prior to Paul; it signifies that Scripture is not merely "inspiring" in a poetic sense, but is the very exhalation of God.

THE HEBREW FOUNDATION: WHAT SCRIPTURE CLAIMS ABOUT ITSELF

1. “TORAH” – INSTRUCTION, LAW, DIVINE TEACHING

Psalms 19:7 declares: “The law (torah) of the LORD is perfect, restoring the soul.”

Torah comes from the root yarah—“to point out,” “to instruct,” “to guide.”

This portrays Scripture as God’s authoritative guidance system—not mere advice but divine direction.

2. “DABAR” – WORD, COMMAND, DECREE

In Isaiah 40:8: “The word (dabar) of our God will stand forever.”

Dabar means not only “word” but a binding decree, something fixed, unchangeable.

God’s dabar outranks human tradition because it is divine speech.

3. “MISHPAT” – JUDGMENT, LEGAL DECISION

Psalms 119 uses mishpatim repeatedly.

These are God’s legal rulings—His definitions of justice.

Only Scripture provides perfect mishpat, unlike human courts or councils

4. “EDUT” – TESTIMONY, WITNESS

Psalms 119:88: “I will keep the testimony (edut) of Your mouth.”

Edut means a witness that stands in court.

Scripture is God’s sworn witness to truth.

Together, these Hebrew terms paint a picture of Scripture as instruction, decree, judgment, and testimony—a complete and authoritative charter for life and faith.

WHY SOLA SCRIPTURA SAFEGUARDS THE CHURCH

1. It protects against spiritual deception (Revelation 13; 2 Thessalonians 2).

Jesus warned that false prophets would perform signs and wonders so convincing “To the law and to the testimony: that even the elect could be if they speak not according to deceived (Matthew 24:23–24). this Word, it is because there is no light in them.” (Isaiah 8:20)

Only Scripture provides the measuring rod to evaluate every spiritual manifestation.

2. It protects freedom of conscience

When Scripture is supreme, no church, leader, or tradition can bind the conscience beyond what God commands.

This is why Luther said:

“My conscience is captive to the Word of God.”

3. It protects the Gospel

Paul warned the Galatians that even an angel from heaven preaching another gospel must be rejected.

Scripture does not err.

4. It equips believers for every era—including the last days

The Bible says the final crisis will involve deception, false miracles, and worldwide spiritual delusion

“Sola Scriptura is not merely a Reformation slogan—it is the survival principle for the end-time church.”

THE FINAL APPEAL: SCRIPTURE ALONE LEADS US

We cling to Scripture alone not out of intellectual pride or denominational identity, but because Scripture leads us directly to Jesus. The written Word reveals the Living Word. It corrects us, comforts us, convicts us, frees us, and prepares us for the return of Christ. In a world filled with voices—religious, political, ideological—only one voice is eternal.

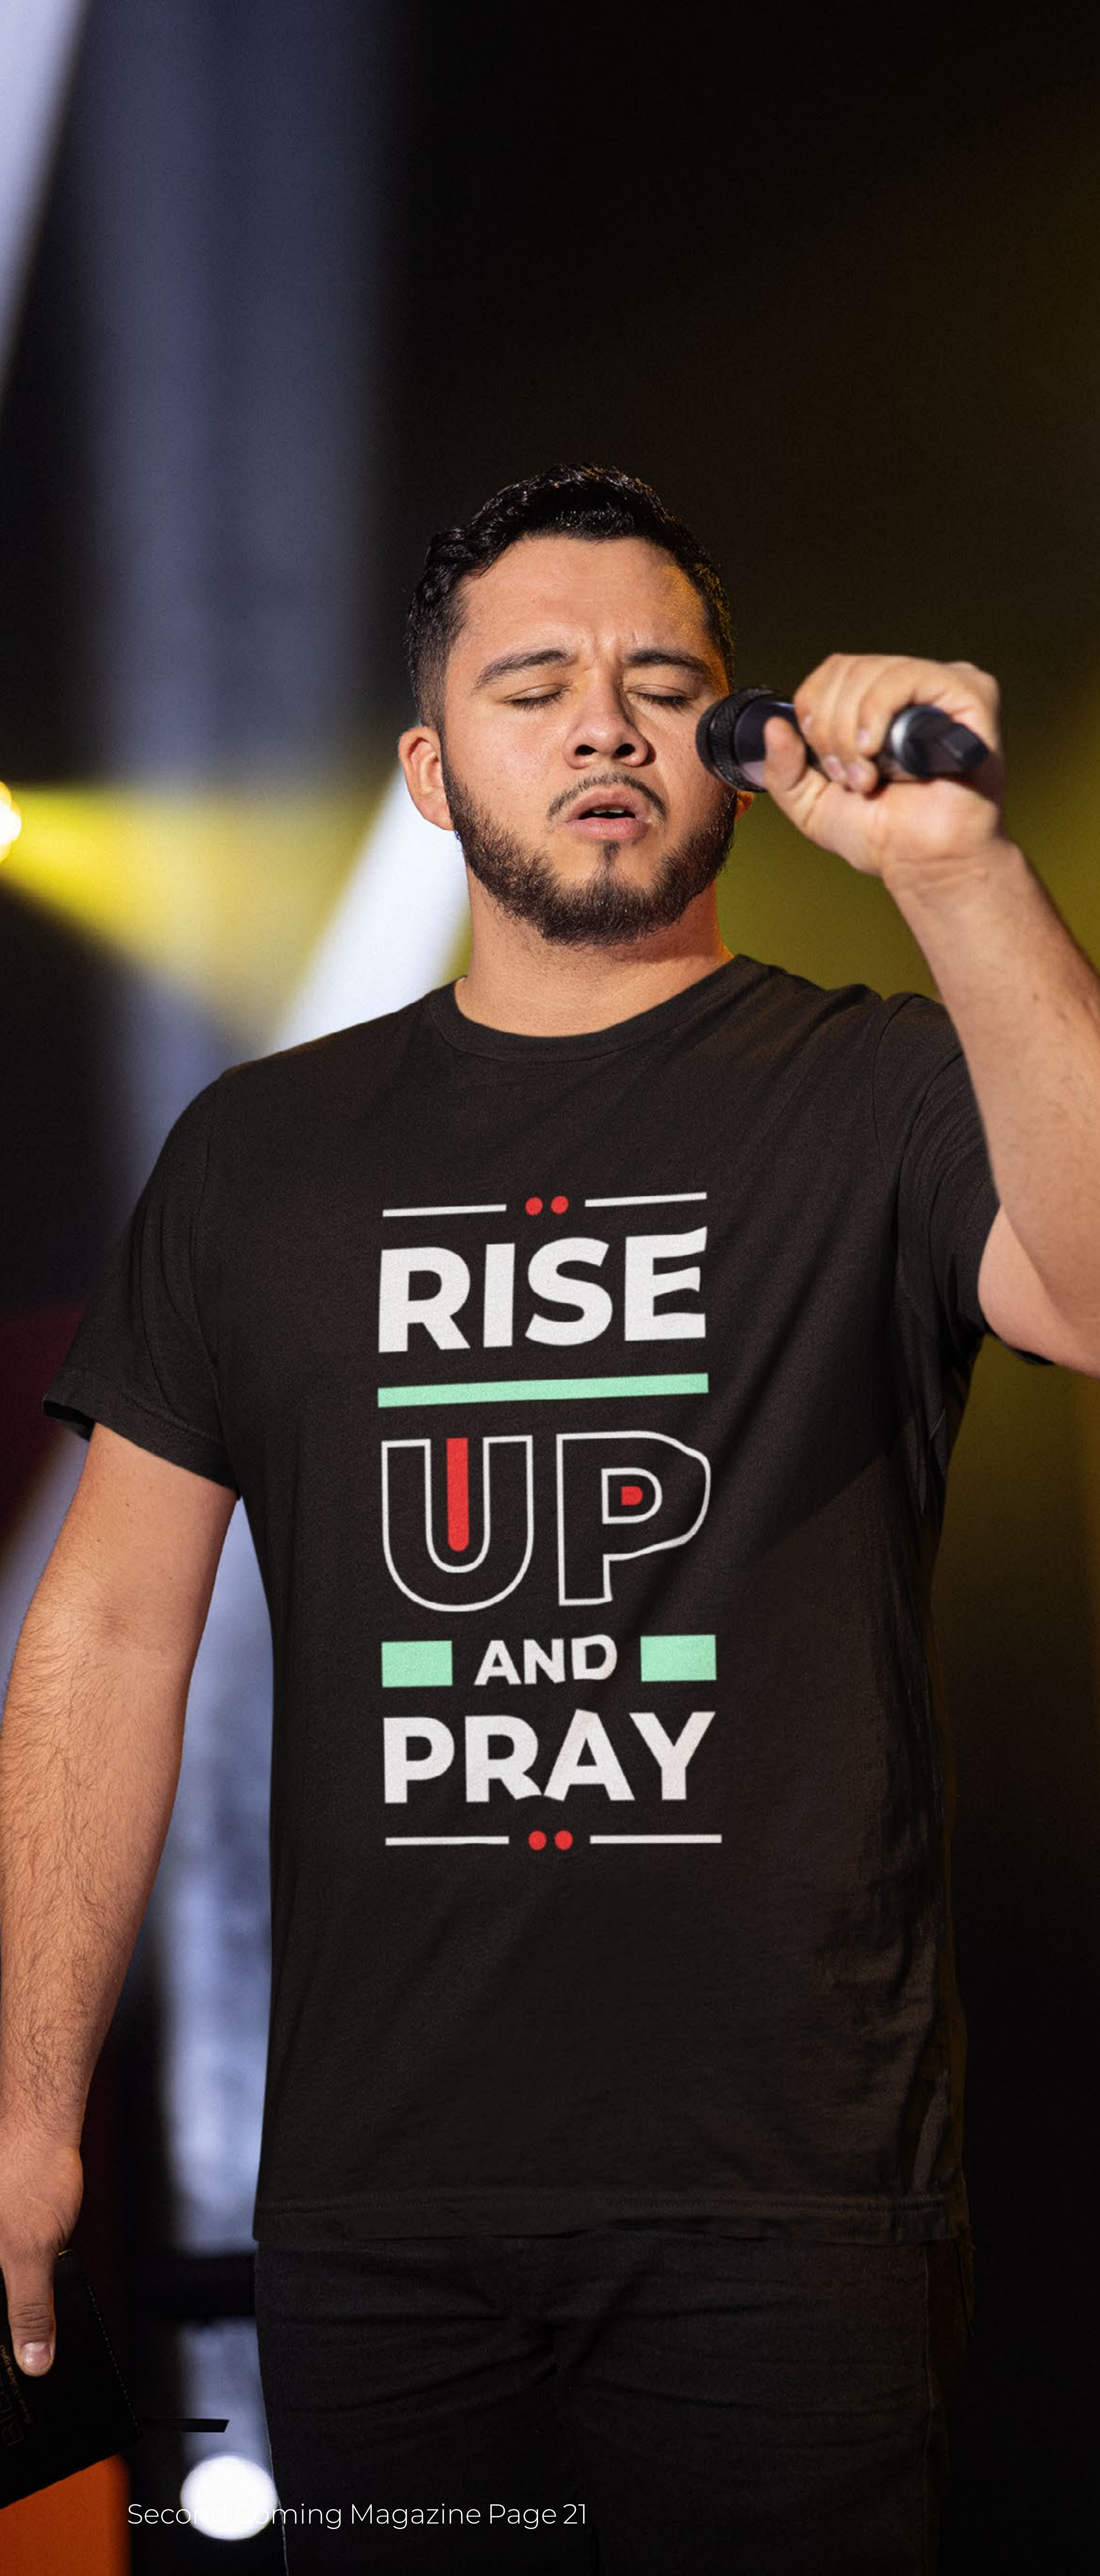

Only one foundation does not move.

Only one authority can deliver us from deception.

Scripture alone. Sola Scriptura.
